

Pamela Birch BA (Hons), MA, PGCE, NLE
Headteacher of Hambleton Primary Academy

Pamela has been the Headteacher of Hambleton Primary Academy for 15 years, taking the school from “Serious Weaknesses” to “outstanding” in both 2007 and 2013. In all, she has taught in both Primary and Secondary schools across the North West and West Yorkshire for the last 27 years.

She has a long track record of effective school to school support, having worked as a School Improvement Partner and Associate Adviser for her local authority as well as providing more recent leadership support to schools across the Fylde, all of which have either improved out of an Ofsted category or sustained success in challenging times.

Pamela has experience as a Governor of a Blackpool Secondary School and is also an elected member of the Headteacher Board of the Regional School’s Commissioner. She has worked as a facilitator on NPQH and NPQSL courses and has mentored newly appointed Headteachers.
